Subject: Gold King: Info provided by F&W contact John Wegrzyn

John Wegrzyn called the Region 8 REOC and provided the following information:

1. At the confluence of the Animas River and the San Juan River (this is in New Mexico), there is designated critical habitat for the Colorado Pike Minnow fish and the Razorback Sucker fish.
2. There is the Nighthorse Reservoir southwest of Durango which pumps water from the Animas River. John called back a short time later to state that he learned the pumping system for this is off-line (so they should not be pumping any contaminated water into the reservoir).
